Water Board Puts POWR Initiative to a Vote

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) voted unanimously to put the Protect Our Water Resources (POWR) initiative to a vote in a special election in lieu of adopting the initiative at its October 21 meeting.

The Monterey County Registrar of Voters certified that the POWR initiative had gathered enough valid signatures, only 7 more than required for a total of 5742 signatures, on September 24, 1996. At the October 21 public hearing the board's options were to adopt the POWR initiative or put it to a public vote in the next election. The board opted to put it to a vote on March 4, 1997, through mail ballots, at a cost of between $75,000 and $90,000. Director Haddad urged the use of mail ballots to increase participation, noting that a special elections usually draw only 20% of eligible voters.

Janice O'Brein, POWR co-chair, said the initiative "puts the priority on meeting the needs of the existing community" and urged the MPWMD to adopt the initiative to save the time and cost of a special election. Gary Tate, POWR committee member, said POWR supports the district and that the initiative is intended to give the board direction.

If adopted, the POWR initiative would require the MPWMD to declare a water shortage until illegal diversions from the Carmel River are eliminated and a reliable water supply and adequate drought protection is secured for current residents. The initiative prohibits new water allocations and new annexations to Cal-Am within the MPWMD until the declared water shortage is over. POWR also prohibits the transfer of New Los Padres Dam permits without a public vote and states the MPWMD should seek voter approval prior to spending over $1 million on a water project.

During the public hearing Edwin Lee urged the board not to adopt the ordinance as it would obstruct future water augmentation efforts.

Other members of the public speaking during the public hearing asked the board not to place other issues, similar to POWR, on the same ballot that would confuse the voters.

In addition to placing POWR on the ballot in a special election the board voted to appoint a committee to analyze the impacts of the ordinance if it were passed and to suggest other issues to place on the ballot. Other potential ballot issues suggested were advisory in nature and included whether the MPWMD should pursue a no-growth Carmel River Dam and/or desalinization. Director Haddad suggested that committee members should not be board members but "community members who have credibility."

MPWMD Chair Burkleo said she got on the board to build a dam and that if the POWR initiative passes it would cut off every community to build and grow adding that there would be no need for the MPWMD if the initiative passed.

Other issues to be on the March 4, 1997 special election ballot will be presented at the next MPWMD meeting on November 18 at 7 pm at the Monterey City Council Chambers.

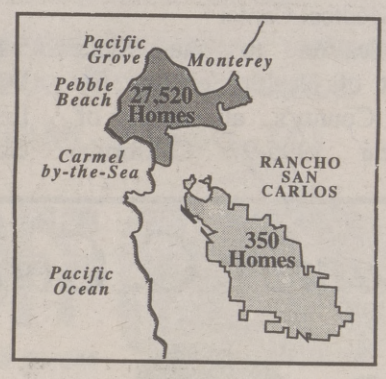
Let's look at the big picture...Measure M is about a small amount of development on a BIG piece of property.

How big is 20,000 acres?

It is 1.5 times bigger than the cities of Monterey, Pacific Grove, Pebble Beach and Carmel combined, and almost twice as big as Salinas.

How dense is 350 homes on 20,000 acres?

If Measure M's limits on Rancho San Carlos applied to the Monterey Peninsula, the four towns combined would have only 225 homes instead of the 27,520 they have today, and Salinas would have only 208 homes instead of 34,600!



How much land at Rancho San Carlos would actually be set aside for people?

In accordance with the County General Plan, no more than 10% of Rancho San Carlos' 20,000 acres will ever be zoned for people. The 350 homes, their backyards, the lodge, recreation facilities, ranch buildings, equestrian and hiking trails, fences, roads and utility easements must all fit on this 10%.

So, common sense tells us 90% of the land (28 sq. miles) will be available for wild animals to roam.

Measure M — A large amount of land. A small amount of development.

Lynette Balesteri, Chapter executive director, said the American Red Cross is changing in many respects and the Carmel Chapter is very much a part of this change. "All chapters are under a national directive to gear up our disaster preparedness programs and our ability to respond to disasters both in our community and elsewhere, and we are working vigorously in that regard," she said. "As the result of a grant from the American Red Cross Northern California Disaster Preparedness Network, we have recently added a Disaster Preparedness Specialist to our staff, and we have a record number of volunteers trained for disaster response."

Balesteri said the Chapter currently has 34 volunteers trained in various disaster relief specialties. "This exceeds American Red Cross expectations for a chapter our size by better than 15 to 1," she said. "Our volunteers respond not only to local disasters, such as the recent fire in the Los Padres National Forest, but to disasters throughout the U.S. and its territories. Since 1989, our volunteers have traveled to 27 national disasters."

In addition to disaster relief, the Carmel Chapter offers a variety of other services such as its blood donor program, first aid and CPR training, loan closet of convalescence equipment, free blood pressure screenings, international tracing, assistance to military families and others. "We are blessed with a very active cadre of volunteers," she said, "but there is always room for more. We have something to offer anyone looking for a rewarding volunteer activity."

In addition to the City of Carmel, the Carmel American Red Cross chapter serves residents in Pebble Beach, Carmel Valley, the Carmel Highlands and south along the coast to the Monterey/San Luis Obispo county line.

Remember "the Rule of No" when considering the myriad propositions on the ballot. If you do not thoroughly understand all of the implications, costs and beneficiaries of any proposition - vote "No". Do not skip over any proposition - vote "No."

YOUR WORLD AND MINE
by Araby Colton

HOW LONG DO WE WAIT?

It happened in Spain, on the Atlantic coast. We quote the newspaper story: "O Portino, Spain - A collapsing mountain of garbage threatens to spill down the rocky northwestern coast into fertile Atlantic Ocean fishing grounds, creating what some fear would be an environmental catastrophe. ... workers build dikes to hold back the 300 foot mountain of trash - 20 years and 1 million tons of waste mostly from nearby La Coruna.

The 250 residents of O Portino were evacuated Sept. 10 to a sport stadium on La Coruna after 100,000 tons of garbage cascaded into the coastal village, swamping their homes, and killing one man."

So it can't happen here, you say? Think again. We're the world's top producers of garbage - 660 kilograms per each of us in 1988.

And what are we doing with all this lovely stuff? Well, there's a notice called the "waste management hierarchy", which lists management options in order of priority: source reduction (avoiding garbage in the first place), direct reuse of products, recycling, incineration, and - as the last resort, land-filling.

This hierarchy is endorsed by the U.N. Environment Programme, and is part of U.S. law with the passage of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of 1976.

But ... and it's a big but ... we've opted for waste management rather than waste reduction. Our first choice was, and is, landfills. Through the 80s over 80 percent of our garbage ended up in landfills. We still landfill nearly three-fourths of our waste.

But landfills leak, releasing into groundwater a toxic soup of rainwater and decomposing waste, called "leachate", containing many hazardous substances, including heavy metals and organic chemicals. More than one-fifth of the hazardous waste sites on the U.S. Superfund clean-up list are municipal landfills. Decay of garbage in oxygen starved dumps also produces methane gas, a major contributor to global warming and a fire hazard.

Then we've gone to incineration. State governments, in 1987, spent 39 times as much on incineration as on recycling programs. New York, in 1972, budgeted $215 million for incinerators, and only one million for recycling.

But incinerators are extremely expensive - for instance, to incinerate one ton of garbage costs, per day, $100,000 to $150,000.

And they're dangerous to your health. They pollute the air and water, and tons of toxic ash. They pump into the air nitrogen and sulfur oxides (both causes of acid rain), carbon monoxide, acid gases, dioxins, and furans (extremely toxic substances, probably causes cancer and genetic defects.)

So, if you get tired of bagging up your newspapers, and glass bottles, and plastic stuff, and toting it to your recycling center, just remember recycling is third down on the hierarchy of waste management methods, after reuse of products, and cutting down on our consumption in the first place.

How do we get to steps one and two? Tune in next week.

WHAT'S NEXT?
by Mel Vercoe

Well, good. We somehow survived another of our remarkable presidential election debates, without anybody showing much concern about our worsening $5.1 trillion national debt, which costs us over $1 billion per day for interest, and which is enough money in one dollar bills, to make a carpet almost a mile wide around our planet at the equator.

(Got any idea how many trees it would take to make that many dollar bills, if our creditors foreclosed and wanted that money back?) And nobody mentioned the IBM solution, saving money by importing workers from Mexico to work here for $1.40 per hour. Perhaps that is the minimum wage in Mexico. Claimed they brought them here for training for jobs in their new factory in Mexico.

If either candidate was concerned about the billions it's costing us to keep hundreds of thousands of our men overseas to protect Europe and South Korea and Japan from enemy attacks, it wasn't brought up. Thousands, maybe millions, of our voters work for the military-industrial complex that we were warned about by Eisenhower, and by Washington, who recognized it as a threat. (And, anybody got any estimates about how much crime could be abated by bringing our overseas forces home to help maintain order in some of our cities, including Salinas?)

And, we hear about concerns for the "future", but we have to "soft-pedal" looking more than 10 or 15 years ahead at what we're going to do about the "golden promise" of high tech jobs, after the planet is flooded with an over-supply of computers, and we've run out of medical supplies, as well as such luxuries as medical care and old age insurance.

Well, like I always say, archaeologists are going to find us very interesting to study, how we had everything going for us, except for one little thing, common sense.

Misinformation About Rancho San Carlos

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

There is so much misinformation being spread about the Rancho San Carlos subdivision. It sounds like such a benign plan but a house site is 50 feet from one property line on the east and ten miles away to the west, there is also another house fifty feet from the neighbor's property. Houses and roads are scattered throughout.

Their Preserve will destroy forever the beautiful scenic drive up Robinson Canyon Road. True, nothing will change for the first five miles, for the land is unbuildable. It is the area around Moore's Lake and present Hacienda that will change. It begins with the five duplexes about 400 yards from the road going up the hillside. Next to that is the 84 acre plot of one of the hotels (110 rooms) with a 60,000 square foot main building and six buildings with 4 suites in each and 31 suites with 2 units in each scattered about with landscaping in between. The next site is the Hacienda which will be expanded to 40 units with dining facilities. Adjoining is the 3 acres of commercial which includes a post office, gas station, retail stores, gallery and offices. Next is the 12,000 square foot area for Conservancy offices and meeting rooms. Six acres will encompass the sports center with pool, tennis courts and spa building. Food will also be served here. Next is the 75 paddock equestrian center and arenas. The three building sewer plant with settling ponds is adjoining. You now come to the intersection of Rancho San Carlos and in that field (zoned heavy commercial) there are the buildings of the maintenance center, which also has gas refueling, garbage collection and recycling, etc. and an employee sport center next to the road. Employee housing is scattered throughout, plus at least 300+ paved parking places. Directly across from the Hacienda on the east side of Robinson Canyon Road you have the golf course (several hundred acres in the prime wildflower viewing area), ridgeline clubhouse, driving range, plus 150 home sites. From Farm Center to White Rock there will be 21 gates for east-west traffic crossing Robinson Canyon Rd. The entrance to the Golf Club is on a blind S-turn and goes straight across the road with electronic gates on both sides. More housing is located on the road near White Rock. Now that they are clearing the sites on Chamisal Ridge one realizes there will be scores of houses sticking out of the hillside looking down on all this.

In my opinion to allow all this to happen and the area destroyed forever, in exchange to be able to go into Nature's Classroom, is a crime. Make Rancho San Carlos relocate these objectionable features that will be seen from a county scenic road into an area hidden from the public view. After all if they are larger than the whole Monterey Peninsula, there should be plenty of space to hide these buildings. Vote No on Measure M.

Water Secure for Rancho San Carlos

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

People who are concerned about the plan Rancho San Carlos often state that the plan is "reasonable" - yet but they are skeptical that their Ranch water supply and will have no effect on the Carmel River.

The project water supply will be from groundwater, and is completely separate (it is miles away after all from the Carmel River). All experts, including qualified hydrologists and geologists and independent sources with years of experience and unbiased credibility, including Walter Wong (who is highly respected by environmentalists locally), as well as federal, state and local water officials, have reviewed the water studies, analyses and reports on Rancho San Carlos for years now. All of them, without exception, are in agreement that the ranch water supply will not affect the Carmel River, that it comes from a separate water source, and that they have many times more water than they need for this project.

This project is one of the best to come along in many years to the Monterey Peninsula. We should let it happen before something much more invasive and dense comes along. 350 homes on 32 square miles - with their own proven water source - is not over-development. Vote Yes on Measure M.

Rancho San Carlos Water and Preserve Fictional

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Voters of Monterey County need to be aware that the proposed Rancho San Carlos (RSC) development does not set aside 18,000 acres in one contiguous piece for a preserve.

The planned 350 houses, 325 caretaker/granny units, 18 hole golf course, 150 room hotel, sewer treatment plant, mining operation areas, gas station and commercial buildings stretch to the corners of the ranch, slashing across the open spaces like a jigsaw puzzle. Eighty miles of paved roads within the subdivision will crisscross streets, driveways, utilities, fire roads, water and sewer lines.

In direct violation of the Monterey County General Plan which calls for clustered development at RSC the Board of Supervisors sold us short and rezoned RSC to allow the above unclustered development.

Not addressed is the increased traffic which will add two cars a minute to Carmel Valley Road. The Supervisors ordered a "new red light" to accommodate these thousands of cars per day instead of requiring the developers to build a tunnel under the road.

Not addressed is the proposed subdivision's water needs. The RSC "proven" water is theoretical, extrapolated from sample well data. Garzas Creek is the main feeder creek into Carmel River, (our primary water source) and one of RSC's major wells is in Garzas Creek. RSC should have been required to prove that its water supply is adequate and independent.

Measure M is not about growth/no growth or property rights but about good management. A "No" vote corrects the Supervisors' mistakes and failure at good management. The "preserve" will not be lost since the developers will come back with a project that truly clusters development and will preserve this "natural heritage".

Part 30 - An introduction to computers at a naively simple level.

Some operating systems have a utility that can tell which UART chip is installed in a computer. For example, the command MSD, in Dos 6.0 or later, can tell a great deal of information about the hardware and configuration e.g., the IRQs and memory addresses of various peripherals and the number of the installed UART chip. Almost all recently manufactured external modems will already have the good 16550A or better chip. It is internal modems that one has to be concerned about and, if buying one, some firm evidence should be sought that the existing computer has the right chip. Similarly, of course, when buying a computer. Particular care should be taken when buying notebook computers as they can seldom, if at all, take an upgraded chip.

It sometimes happens that, when a modem has just been installed, the communications program, including fax programs, may not be able to start transmitting at all. In this case, there is almost always a simple "terminal" program that can be used to test the modem and serial connections. For example, Terminal in Windows can be started, the serial port to be used and other settings made, and when the command AT is given, the modem will respond with o.k., if it really is so. If it isn't o.k. then it will keep its mouth shut, its typing finger in its pocket, and ignore you. The command AT gets the attention of the modem and this is just one of hundreds of possible commands that modems understand. For example, to tell a modem to dial a number, just type ATDT followed by a space and the number to be dialed and, if all the settings are correct, it will do just that. The command ATA tells the model to answer a call i.e. pick up the line and ATH hangs up the line. Each modem has what is called an "initialization string." This is a string of commands that starts the handshaking process with another modem and typically is like the following: AT&F&C1&D2V1 *XC1 SO=O S2=128 S7=55. Each make and model of modem has a different string and, when installing a modem in the computer, it is usually necessary to select this string from a list of several hundred. Each character in the string conveys information to the other modem.

When the two modems start communicating, many things can happen. The two computers may be doing different things in addition to transmitting, will almost certainly be two quite different computers, and the telephone line condition often varies from minute to minute. It sometimes happens that one computer or modem will disconnect the line - this is called a line drop. This could also be caused by the telephone company working on a line, or a telephone switch problem, but usually not. It can be particularly annoying if one is transmitting a very large file and one has to start again. To guard against such annoyances it is better to choose ZModem in the pre-transfer settings, which we discussed earlier, and when a reconnection is made, the file will continue downloading from where it left off. Unfortunately, downloads from the Internet cannot be done via ZModem which can lead to considerable frustration.

Why You Need Title Insurance

Title Insurance. It's a term we hear and see frequently - we see reference to it in the Sunday real estate section, in advertisements and in conversations with real estate brokers. If you've purchased a home before, you're probably familiar with the benefits and procedures of title insurance. But if this is your first home, you may wonder, "Why do I need another insurance policy? It's just one more bill to pay."

The answer is simple: the purchase of a home is most likely one of the most expensive and important purchases you will ever make. You, and your mortgage lender, want to make sure that the property is indeed yours - lock, stock and barrel - and that no individual or government entity has any right, lien, or claim to your property.

Title insurance companies are in business to make sure your rights and interests to the property are clear, that transfer of title takes place efficiently and correctly and that your interests as a home buyer are protected to the maximum degree.

Title insurance companies provide services to buyers, sellers, real estate developers, builders, mortgage lenders and others who have an interest in a real estate transfer. Title companies routinely issue two types of policies - "owner's", which cover you, the home buyer; and "lender's", which covers the bank, savings and loan or other lending institution over the life of the loan. Both are issued at the time of purchase for a modest, one-time premium.

Before issuing a policy, however, the title company performs an extensive search of relevant public records to determine if anyone other than you has an interest in the property. The search may be performed by title company personnel using either public records or more likely, information gathered, reorganized and indexed in the company's title "plant".

With such a thorough examination of records, any title problems usually can be found and cleared up prior to your purchase of the property. Once a title policy is issued, if for some reason any claim which is covered under your title policy is ever filed against your property, the title company will pay the legal fee involved in defense of your rights, as well as any covered loss arising from a valid claim. That protection which is in effect as long as you or your heirs own the property, is yours for a one-time premium paid at the time of purchase.

The fact that title companies work to eliminate risks before they develop makes the title insurance decidedly different from other types of insurance you may have purchased. Most forms of insurance assume risks by providing financial protection through a pooling of risks for losses arising from an unforeseen event, say a fire, theft or accident. The purpose of title insurance, on the other hand, is to eliminate risks and prevent losses caused by defects in title that happened in the past. Risks are examined and mitigated before property changes hands.

This risk elimination has benefits to you, the home buyer, and the title company: it minimizes the chances adverse claims might be raised, and by so doing reduces the number of claims that have to be defended or satisfied. This keeps costs down for the title company and your title premiums low.

Buying a home is a big step emotionally and financially. With title insurance you are assured that any valid claim against your property will be borne by the title company, and that the odds of a claim being filed are slim indeed.

Isn't sleeping well at night, knowing your home is yours, reason enough for title insurance?

This article was published by the California Land Title Association. Member companies of the CLTA are dedicated to facilitating the transfer of real property throughout California and increasing the public's awareness of the value and purpose of title insurance.

was conducted. However, this vehicle could not be located.

* Five items stored at the Rancho Laureles Equestrian Center have turned up missing over the last month or so. The suspect boards a horse near the community tack room where the majority of the items were being kept unsecured. This afternoon the suspect allegedly pushed a wooden cart into the legs of an individual staying at the Center.

* Craig Brinton, manager of Brinton's, reported a Herald delivery driver saw a man in a new Chevy truck loading plants from in front of the store. The truck had Love Chevrolet plates.

* Richard Hendrix, manager of the Fish Ranch, Crossroads, reported a former employee by the name of Don Dayton came into the restaurant today saying he is going to sue the restaurant and "get" Hendrix. * Sweet, of Hermitage Rd., Pebble Beach, reports receiving annoying phone calls at his residence within past several months.

The stop led to the contact of the driver, Mr. Brian Owens, and three passengers being Mr. Omar Shake, and Richard and John Chioini. During contact, noise was heard from the trunk of the car and a search was made of same, revealing five "happy" hunting dogs hidden inside. The Chionis explained that they were out taking the dogs for a drive. The group was lectured about the evils of poaching and all agreed to return home including the now un-"happy" hunting dogs. No further action taken.

* Neuman, on Sunset Ln., Pebble Beach, reported hearing noises near her bedroom window. An area check was made and nothing was found.

Interest Groups Interfering in Approval Process

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

It seems we're in an age of active destruction. Time was when an honest organization could put together a plan for a development that complied with local laws and rezoning standards and after an active debate, revisions and considered approval by the officials elected to their office for the very purpose of representing the majority ... the development would be approved. That's the way most of this nation was built. Now, however, there are groups of folks who have differences of opinion about the process of approval and it is the active destructive misleading statements and misinformed public who can cause us to lose a great opportunity ... forever. Please vote YES on Measure M.

Jeff Davi a Man of Principal

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

I am a former Sam Karas supporter. I believe the 5th District has been represented well by Sam in his years of service to the county. I decided to learn more about the person who came within 12 votes of defeating this 10 year incumbent in 1993, Jeff Davi. As I have gotten to know Jeff and his positions on the issues, Measure M, Measure E, and the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District. I was surprised then to find out that Sam was supporting his opponent Dave Potter. Potter has taken the extreme side of the important issues. Siding with the vocal minority in an effort to garner votes and support for his election. I despise this type of action from a politician, basically saying anything to get elected.

I find it refreshing that Jeff Davi is a man of principal who I know is articulate, does his homework, and willing to see both sides of the issues and make an informed decision. We need more people like Jeff in public office. People concerned about our community's future, not about getting elected. I am encouraging the voters of the 5th district to vote for Jeff, because he is a successful business man who wants to bring some much needed business principals to Monterey County government. Let's elect a true leader not another politician to the Board on November 5th, let's elect Jeff Davi.

Potter Sticks to the Issues

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Dave Potter's published answer to the heavy handed attacks from his opponent during this heavily contested race for the 5th District Supervisor is admirable. To quote: "As a candidate for County Supervisor, I have pledged to my supporters to run a clean and honest campaign that focuses on the issues that we in Monterey County care about so much".

Dave Potter also made a vow at the start of the campaign to himself, to his wife, Pat, and to his two children, Sarah and Tyler, that he would not engage in slanderous attacks on his opponent nor stoop to respond to misstatements and innuendoes designed to woo votes away from him. How could he do otherwise and still maintain his own respect as well as the respect of his wife and teenage children?

Potter stands by his reputation as a hard working, experienced Monterey City Council member, as a caring member of this community who provides for his loving and supportive family, and as someone who conscientiously works for the environmental good of us all.

Perhaps it is the immaturity of his twenty-eight year old opponent, who has never held public office, that accounts for these mean spirited misstatements. Perhaps it is the fear of losing this race which accounts for his opponent's mudslinging and recent conversion to environmentalism.

Whatever it is, I admire Dave Potter for getting on with the real issues of the campaign: "Yes" on Measure E (PROTECT our ag lands), "No" on Measure M (Rancho San Carlos subdivision), and against the massive project proposed for Fort Ord. As Potter says, we need to "protect and preserve the natural values that make life here so wonderful".

Vote for experience. Vote for Dave Potter for 5th District Supervisor.

Yes On E to Enforce Zoning

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Monterey County Business Council opposes the Agricultural Land and Resource Conservation Initiative because it doesn't fit with their zoning policy.

What zoning policy is that? The one that allows every town in the valley to have a subdivision on farm land?

What was the zoning policy that allowed subdivisions on River Road and Old Stage Road on land that wasn't using any water and now uses thousands of gallons every day?

What was the policy on these giant malls that not only kill the small, family run businesses but lets these malls run each other out of business?

And just because the Farm Bureau is opposed to the initiative does not mean that its 700 members are opposed to it.

I'm a member and I haven't talked to a farmer yet that is opposed to the initiative.

It's not like the Farm Bureau has its members vote on these issues.

The business council objected to the initiative because agriculture was not consulted. I have one question: When has agriculture been consulted on anything?

Measure E would preserve farmland, natural habitats and water

Citizens Support Measure E

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Who's behind Measure E? Ordinary citizens who are interested in saving the county. Volunteers collected over fifteen thousand signatures in a matter of weeks to qualify Measure E for the ballot. All contributions for Measure E have come from individuals.

Who's opposed to Measure E? Developers or wanna-be developers. Twenty-two corporations have given more than $1000 each (totalling $92,765 to date) to the developers' efforts to stop Measure E.

If you're a developer or if you like traffic congestion, read no further. If you're a citizen who doesn't want our county paved over, work to pass Measure E on November 5.

New CV Airport Owner Not So Nice

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

You painted a pretty picture of Lars DeJounge and the Carmel Vintage Airport in your October 3rd issue. I would like to present another perspective.

I had an encounter with the new "owner" in September when my spouse, her sister, our niece and nephew visited Carmel Valley Airport. My nephew dearly loves aircraft and while "walking the strip" my nephew climbed up on a plane to get a better look. As we were about to leave, a man came charging across the runway on a bicycle, blasted an air-horn at my nephew and shouted, "come here". He then started to berate my nephew for climbing on the planes and us for not "controlling our children."

I am a pilot, my nephew's father is a pilot and NASA engineer and I'm sure my nephew will be a pilot when he turns 16. It was not appropriate for my nephew to be climbing on a plane that does not belong to him but he knows how to board general aviation aircraft. Not knowing who Lars was, I asked him if he was the airport police. He replied, "I'm Lars DeJounge and I own this airport." Well, I have lived here 16 years, learned to fly 10 years ago and know the Delfinos own Carmel Valley Airport. So, I asked him if he was Mr. Delfino. He replied, "Uh, no, I'm leasing the airport from the Delfinos."

Regarding Lars' October 3rd remark, "if we can't keep the dogs under control the FAA will make us put up a fence." Dogs, people and airplanes have coexisted on the Carmel Valley Airport since 1941. I've had to "go-around" for a dog or two on the runway but so what? Also, if I had a new Beechcraft Bonanza and the means to purchase a lot and build a home on the airport, the article indicates I could not buy a lot since the aircraft is not "historic". I think I would certainly have enough resources to settle a discrimination case in court.

The airport has been a benefit to Village businesses by attracting upscale tourists who fly to their destinations. The ten dollar landing fee Lars has imposed will certainly limit the number of arriving aircraft. Landing fees are typically imposed by larger airports that have full aviation services available to support general aviation aircraft (i.e. fuel, oil, a restroom). These fees are usually waived if services are obtained. Will Santa have to pay $10 to land this Christmas?

Lars DeJounge appears to be a rude, self-serving individual and I predict he will erode the peaceful relationship our Village residents and businesses have enjoyed with the Carmel Valley Airport.

Facts on Rancho San Carlos

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Replying to Patrick Smith's letter asking where are my facts?

Yes, there were over 13 hearings on the RSC development. I and many other opponents of the project attended and spoke at all of them. We also had many personal meetings with all Supervisors and staff over the last six years not to mention our written responses to the various EIRs. Prior to 1993, we presented a petition with over 1600 signatures opposing the development. In 1996, we presented another petition with over 350 signatures of opposition. As early as 1992, we were advised by many of the inner circle that approval was a "done deal" with the County, and we were only receiving lip service. None of the supervisors or other officials indicated this project could be financially possible. In fact, some were quite candid and stated they would never invest in it. Initial conditions placed by staff, health and public works were rejected by the Supervisors. They only listened to the developers "spin talk". In meetings with staff and some Supervisors I was asked who our attorney was, and told we had better have a good one as they had the best. Needless to say, I did not realize the developers were privy to behind the counter access in County offices. I have never heard of this with other projects.

Resolution 93-115 adopted for this development in 1993, contained conditions of approval strong enough to keep our opposition from appealing. Since then the majority of these protective conditions have been whittled away until one can scarcely recognize them. The final approval of the project in February, 1996, is a farce from what was expected. The wordage was reinterpreted. The conditions were changed with many becoming valueless, i.e. #156, sewer plant will be kept neat and clean. They removed the condition no wells allowed within 1000 feet of base flow. They claimed there would no health threat to downstream water (Carmel River) but condition #164 states golf score cards must have a warning that treated sewage is used for the turf. Supervisors all signed the rebuttal argument on voter pamphlet stating only deep well water would be used, and no water would be taken that would effect the Carmel River. At this moment, the developers have an application pending to take 250 acre feet from Garzas Creek which flows directly to the Carmel River.

Developers claim property rights. Well I claim property rights too. There is no need to place estate housing 50 feet from my property line when they have thirteen miles of land for these structures. There is no need to move 300,000 cubic yards of earth for a private golf course with all its adverse chemical effects upstream of our source for drinking water and the lake where my members fish and swim - although if they pump the water from San Clement Creek, we won't have any water to worry about.

I have had my business here for 37 years, and know what happens when it does not rain, so do the informed residents of our County. These are just a few reasons, people are fed up with double speak developers, and a Board of Supervisors who are only content to watch the clock, so they can cut you off when it is your time to make your argument. They made their minds up years ago.

As for high road - low road, be assured the opposition I am associated with does not condone tearing down campaign signs. Vote No signs are also being removed.

This is where I get my facts. I've been there. Where do you get yours? I hope it is not from the developers. ... Vote No on Measure M.

Rancho San Carlos Will Pay for Road Improvements

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

The most important vote you can make for traffic congestion relief at the mouth of the valley (Carmel Valley Road and Highway One) is Yes on Measure M. Rancho San Carlos is required to pay for major improvements to this intersection including the two right turn lanes plus a merging lane on Highway One. This improvement would greatly relieve this current congestion nightmare. There are not government monies or programs scheduled to improve the current congestion problems, and the Hatton Canyon Freeway will probably be in court for another 35 years. Until the politicians and attorneys stop battling and agree on what to do, we as citizens must vote yes to get this much need solution in place this year.

Rancho San Carlos Water Not Secure

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

We all know that water is a most important concern in our county. Our community has loads of "paper water", but flowing water is scarce. Carmel River dries up in summer because too many Carmel Valley wells tap our aquifer and pump the surface water away.

Rancho San Carlos' promoters claim they have their own deep water, over 200,000 acre feet of it. Just imagine. If our community had this huge amount of water, our problems would be over forever.

Knowing this, isn't it strange that the Rancho San Carlos developers are applying to the State Water Resource Commission for an additional 250 acre feet of surface water from Garzas Creek which flows by their Hacienda on its way to the Carmel River. If, indeed, there are 200,000 acre feet of water at the Rancho, why on earth would the developers need 250 acre feet more? Could their water only be "paper water"?

If there are not 200,000 acre feet of water available at Rancho San Carlos it would explain why the Garzas Creek water is needed by the developers. However, we all know that when you remove water upstream you have less downstream. One gallon pumped out of Garzas Creek, is one gallon less reaching Carmel River, our only source of water for the Monterey Peninsula.

What kind of water can we drink? Paper water or flowing water? Try drinking paper and you have the answer. Please vote No on Measure M.

Potter the Real Developer

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

No issue is more pivotal to the Fifth District Supervisorial race than that of development, and no one issue has been so badly represented by both press and public as this one. During the primaries, articles were written portraying Jeff Davi as "pro-development" and Dave Potter as "pro-environment". Actually, both Jeff Davi and Dave Potter support sustaining our quality of life through limited development and protection of the environment. "Developer", as defined by Webster's, is "someone who builds and sells houses". In truth, Dave Potter fits that definition; not Jeff Davi. After labeling Jeff Davi as "pro-development", articles now question whether he has "changed", and whether that change can be trusted. While this kind of rhetoric may sell papers, as the saying goes, it is not helpful in giving the public the information needed to

Play Better Golf with JACK NICKLAUS

IN PREPARING TO PLAY A LONG-IRON, THINKING "DRIVER SWING" OFTEN PRODUCES A MORE SOLID SHOT. THE REASON IS THE LONG-IRONS WORK BEST WITH A SWEEPING RATHER THAN A CHOPPING TYPE ACTION.
SET THE BALL FORWARD. COIL FULLY. THEN SIMPLY AIM TO SWEEP THE BALL OFF THE TOP OF THE GRASS. WITHOUT TAKING MUCH OF A DIVOT.
IN OTHER WORDS, SWING AS YOU DO WITH THE DRIVER.

intelligently select the next Fifth District Supervisor.

California law prohibits governments from limiting development solely on the basis of inadequate infrastructure. It is expected that a plan for growth will include many factors, such as economic needs and housing needs. Once the plan for development is produced, government is then supposed to provide the necessary infrastructure for that development to occur. At the time this approach to planning was initiated, infrastructure was considered to be limitless.

In the 1990s we have learned differently. We know that there is a definite limit to available water, that roads cost money we no longer have, and that some areas contain resources that must not be displaced by development. It does not work in the real world to plan development without regard to infrastructure, but it is still the law.

Jeff Davi's approach to dealing with this contradiction is to revise plans within the known limits so there is an impartial set of rules for everyone to follow. This is evident in his opposition to the FORA plan which will allow over 70,000 more residents at Fort Ord (a new plan in the making), and his support for the Santa Lucia project which limits 20,000 acres to 350 homes and 150 hotel units (a product of an existing plan). Updating planning is the due process which provides a fair playing field both for those who want to develop and those who will live with the results. Because Jeff knows what the laws are, and because he proposes solutions which will work within the existing legal framework, he is called "pro-development". Our current method allows development to be considered largely on political merits. Dave Potter advocates no change in this status quo. That leaves development in the something-to-be-feared category.

When you get beyond the sound bite rhetoric, there are many, many reasons to vote for Jeff Davi.

Potter Defaulted on Obligations

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

On Wednesday, October 18, 1996 at 10 a.m. lawyers for builders and owners of Del Rey Chateaux (met) with the arbitrator in what looks like a last ditch effort to settle a troublesome lawsuit. Condo owners have sued the builders claiming fraud, deceit, misrepresentation, concealment and conspiracy. Defendant Dave Potter (a Monterey City Councilman and candidate for District 5 County Supervisor) is specifically accused of "affirmative acts of concealment." If an agreement can't be reached ... the case goes to jury trial.

Potter was also one of the defendants who paid 3.5 million dollars to the owners of the Montsalas condos in 1985. And courthouse records show Potter and his projects have been in foreclosure for non-payment of debts at least eleven times.

I don't know where the hearing will be. I'm told it's not open to the public. Court records show the hearing was scheduled by Judge Richard Silver. Plaintiff's attorney is Philip Decker of San Jose, phone 408-287-3518. Defendant's attorney is Andrew Swartz of Monterey, phone 373-3235.

I am not involved with Davi, I have contributed nothing to his campaign. I'm concerned because I will be terribly embarrassed if, in addition to defaulting on his obligations at least eleven times, my County Supervisor is found guilty of fraud, deceit, misrepresentation, concealment and conspiracy. The details of Potter's conduct are readily available in public documents. I'd like you to help make sure the voters know what the record is.
